A HANDBOOK

FOR LOCAL

CHURCHES

Daniel L. Buttry

"Dan Buttry is one of our best practical theologians. As both a pastor and an activist, he helps Christians in their local churches and grassroots communities put theology into action. In this helpful handbook, Buttry helps us to deepen and widen our vision of peacemaking."

Jim Wallis

Editor, Sojourners

"As the pastor of a church that understands peacemaking as central to the gospel, I am always searching for resources that can effectively combine this vision with the actual life and ministry of the congregation. Dan Buttry offers us the best of pastoral handbooks, a book that you want to keep on hand to refer to again and again. The book vibrates with stories of peacemaking in local churches, giving one a sense of hope and possibility in the multiple ways Christ's peace can be manifested in our world."

Nancy Hastings Sehested

Pastor, Prescott Memorial Baptist Church, Memphis, Tennessee

"Peace Ministry is a recipe for reconciliation, positive approaches to problem-solving that focus every aspect of ministry towards sensitizing, networking, and eventuating God's shalom—the directing of all pieces toward ultimate harmony."
